

The Virginia Beach Center for the Arts: A New Vision for the MOCA

Teddy Riley Virginia Performing Arts Center

- .Legendary record producer and songwriter Teddy Riley would like to be honored permanently in his hometown of Virginia Beach.
- .Theater & studio will be named in his honor, and Teddy Riley's team will have first priority use for music events.
- .We will do a weekend honoring Teddy, as was done for Timbaland, which will culminate in the unveiling of a portrait of him by a local artist that will be permanently housed in the theatre.
- .The Theater will feature musical performances by both established and emerging talent.
- .When not in use by musical artists, the Theater can also host film festivals and community theater presentations. Imagine mini film festivals celebrating films of a specific theme: Black History & Culture, Musicals, LGBTQIA/Pride, Fashion Films

Virginia Performing Arts Hall of Fame

- In the galley spaces, we will have the Virginia Performing Arts Hall of Fame
- Local artists will be inducted in two or three times a year, and each inductee will have a portrait unveiled and will have the opportunity to loan out some pieces of memorabilia to be shown in a temporary exhibit alongside permanent wall space for each inductee.
- The Hall of Fame will feature musical artists of all genres, as well as actors, and creative forces in the areas of fashion, film, theater, and visual arts.

- These inductions will be in conjunction with other events such as concerts, film premieres, fashion shows, city-wide festivals and presentations.
- Entire weekends can be devoted to one artist or a group presentation featuring multiple honorees in the same field.

Rotating Memorabilia Exhibitions

- Celebrities often prefer to loan out significant objects rather than permanently donate them.
- Having rotating exhibits will encourage patrons to keep coming back to see what's currently on display from the celebrity most recently honored.
- Seasonal exhibits can tie in with holidays such as Halloween and Christmas as well as tie-ins to festivals and celebrations nearby.

Future Records Studio

.Sony has expressed interest in investing in a new recording studio in Virginia Beach.

.We could potentially build a replica of Teddy Riley's original Future Records Recording Studio which tragically burned down in 2008.

.In the meantime, the space previously known as the Rodriguez Pavillion can serve as recording studio as well as a teaching space for future musical artists, producers and engineers.

.The studio can be rented by the hour for professional recordings as well as can be open for group tours.

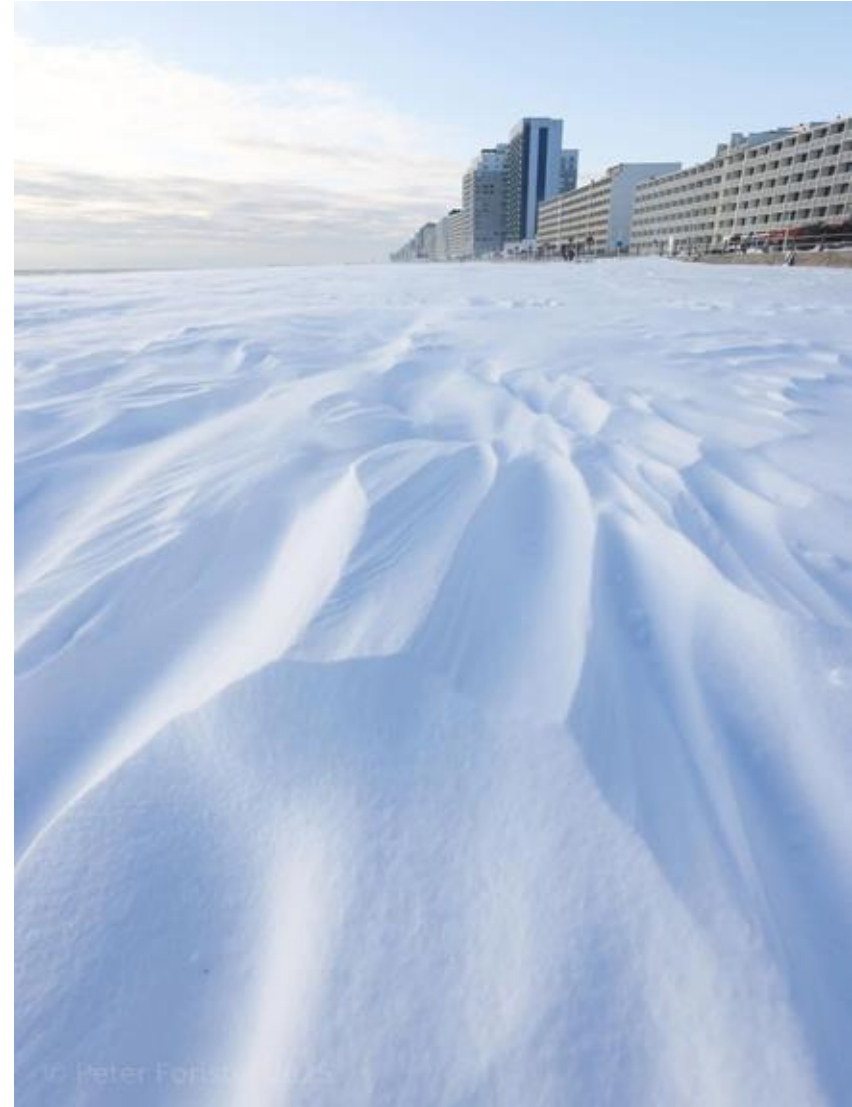

Educational Opportunities

- Field trip destination for nearby school districts.
- Design studio with 3D printer.
- Real-time training in a professional music studio for future artists, djs, producers, engineers
- Classrooms will be used for music, sewing, art, and engineering classes by both in house organizations as well as visiting non-profits.
- Special music programs directed by Teddy Riley or any of the producers/music legends with ties to Virginia Beach will be creating future stars!
- Saturday mornings could also offer yoga, fitness, dance, aerobic classes.

Winter Tourism

- Virginia Beach tourism has gone to great lengths to create more tourism revenue during the non-Summer months.
- Having a performing arts space with regular events (music, film, fashion, theater) and continuing exhibits at the Oceanfront area could help encourage music fans to visit during the Winter months..
- Could drive business to the hotels and the extremely nearby convention center as well by making Virginia Beach a destination for the performing arts.

Community Events Venue

- The Museum of Contemporary Art has been a popular events venue in Virginia Beach for years.
- It's one of the only venues in the Oceanfront with adequate parking and that is easily accessible from the interstate.
- We plan to keep this facility open and available for event rentals, both for ticketed community events and private weddings/parties.
- There was a reason two separate events for Timbaland weekend were hosted there; it's a beautiful and well-designed space.

A popular destination for tourists

If you don't have anyone else able to use the venue immediately, why not give us a shot?

- Keeping the venue occupied and maintained is best for the location longterm, even if the city eventually decides to do something else.
- We will have onsite staff and security to keep the homeless from congregating in the area, something likely to happen if the venue sits empty for an extended period of time.
- The site sitting empty is also bad press for the city and specifically City Council.
- We would start with an open house, promoting the space for weddings/fundraisers/parties.
- Fashion shows, theater presentations, films, concerts will begin within 30 days of our occupation.
- We will have temporary exhibits available immediately as well as pop-ups and summer programs such as day camps for fashion, music and theater.
